NOT A POPULAR PRIMARY.

The feature of our new primary election system, or a public party-framing and stereotyping of voters is under large condemnation and will become more so. No better system could be devised to aid the losses of the party machines in listing the faithful and holding them in the party traces for convenient nominating use.

The whole idea and purpose of the movement leading up to this election have been to take the power of nomination to public office from the party clique and give it to the people or the voters generally. The end brought was not merely direct nomination, but popular direct nomination, and what is to be said of the "popular" character of this system?

No one not prepared to become publicly enrolled with one party or another can participate in these primaries. He must remain away. He is disfranchised as a primary elector. And that thousands remained away for this cause who doubt when he considers the growing tendency of citizens to act independently of party? We have beyond this great numbers of citizens who are more or less regularly attached to one party or another but who for good reasons do not care to have their party affiliations publicly proclaimed and registered and nailed down.

After this year no one can even sign a nomination paper unless he is publicly enrolled, by participation in the last previous primary, as a member of the party represented by the candidate. And one who has enrolled with a party and wants to change will be practically certain in the process to lose his right both to participate in the next primary and to sign nomination papers. The whole tendency and force of the system in this to narrow the nominating power more and more down to the old crowd of more or less professional party workers. Wherein, then, is there great gain over the former arrangement? And where is the justification for loading the cost of so exclusive a party mechanism on the whole electorate a good part of which is virtually excluded from participation therein? Let these party enrollment and publicity features at least be removed. Let us have, if anything, real popular primaries, in which each elector can participate on one and the same ballot for all on which party choices can be made by the voter in the secrecy of the booth. Springfield Republican.

OFFICER McCULLY'S

QUICK ACTION.

Officer M. McCully did a clever piece of work last Friday night on a horse, steadily speaking at 1.30 Saturday morning. He was standing in front of Cogley's store at that hour when a horse and buggy went past, while the casually observed turned into Park Street to Kelley & Hawes' livery stable. A few minutes later he saw a man come out of that street and enter a restaurant on Main street, where he remained for a short time, then come out and go toward the stable again. At that time a telephone call was received from the police or Charles-town that a rig had been stolen there belonging to Mr. Callahan an undertaker. Officer McCully becoming suspicious, started for the stable but before reaching there he saw the man come out and start off hastily up the hill, but by the time he reached Vine street the man was gone. Upon ascertaining that the man was the one who left the team at the stable, he took him to the lockup and telephoned to the Charles-town police station, and early in the morning an officer took him to Charles-town. The man's name was George Nelson whose home is in that place. Officer McCully was congratulated by the Charles-town officer for his quick work.

BACK TO THE FARM.

Congressman McCull, together with his family, are spending a month at "Prospect Farm," Lancaster, N. H. The farm is owned jointly, we understand, by the McCalls and Fernalds, both families residents of Winchester. The farm, which is a well known landmark throughout that territory and has one of the most extensive as well as finest views of the President's estate in the White Mountains and the Franconia Range, was the property of the father of Congressman John W. Weeks of the firm of H. and A. Weeks. Mr. Weeks' boyhood was spent on the farm and the memory of his father is held in the highest regard by the Lancaster people. Some years ago the property was purchased by George P. Rowell, of New York, a cousin of the editor of this paper, who greatly enlarged the house and beautified it and the grounds, and also improved the farm lands. Having other large properties Mr. Rowell sold Prospect Farm to our Congressman and the Fernalds for a fraction of what it cost him.

While on our annual visit to Lancaster, this fall, we walked out to the farm and had a pleasant little chat with Mr. McCull, who was enjoying his rest after the arduous and tiresome summer at Washington. It was pleasant to find him so appreciative of the farm that is endeared to us by many memories of happy days. The farm is on the southeasterly slope of the mountain that gives it its name. From Mr. Prospect's standpoint a superb view from every point of the compass. Congressman Weeks has the project well along of building a road from the base of the mountain up to the summit, at an expense, it is said, of ten thousand dollars. (Lancaster Advocate.)

LIQUOR AT POLISH WEDDING.

The Gardner district court has ruled that serving liquor at Polish weddings is illegal, and if the ruling is upheld by the superior court it will put a stop to a long time custom. It will serve as an effective check on having liquor at such occasions, even as a dinner beverage. The court held that if guests at a wedding continue to follow the custom of donating money to the bride, as is now a custom at Polish weddings, and are afterwards served with intoxicating liquors, the donation of such money proves a sale and the bridegroom can be convicted. If the new ruling is enforced it will prevent many Polish bridegrooms from giving a sort of polish to the wedding.

DEMOCRATIC REVISION

How It Would Effect One Massachusetts Industry

THE TARIFF IS A LIVE ISSUE

Southern Democrats Seem Determined to Strike at Massachusetts Textiles—Work of the Tariff Board is Nearly Completed

Massachusetts is a great manufacturing state, and one of its greatest industries is the manufacture of woollens. The annual output of woollens manufactured in Massachusetts is over $100,000,000, or more than one-quarter of all the manufactured woollens produced in America. The two hundred odd woolen mills between the Merrimack and the Berkshires employ some 63,000 operatives whose wages support over 200,000 of our people, and the Boston wool market, which is the greatest in America, handles each year over 300,000,000 pounds of wool, or more than half of all the raw wool used in the United States.

It is essential, therefore, for the citizens of Massachusetts to know exactly what the present Democratic "tariff revision" program means, and how it would affect the thousands whose wages depend on the protection it now receives under the Republican tariff of 1909.

Former Democratic Tariff Bills
 The Mills bill of 1888 and the Sprague bill of 1892 gave New England wool manufacturers free raw wool and a protective duty on manufactured woollens of from 10 to 15 percent, and the Gorman-Wilson law of 1891, enacted in the second Cleveland administration, gave them free wool and somewhat over 10 percent protection on woollens. In these days the Massachusetts Democracy, led by John E. Russell and William E. Russell, spoke and fought for Massachusetts interests, but it apparently has neither the power nor the purpose to do so today.

Governor Foss and Congressman Davis, instead of remembering that we have a same revision of the woolen schedule after the board of tariff experts have reported on the degree of protection needed by this great industry, have put party allegiance above the welfare of their State, and have joined with the Democrats of the south in a raid on Massachusetts industry.

A Violent Blow at Massachusetts
 The Underwood woolen bill, which was proposed by the Democrats in Congress, aimed a death blow at Massachusetts woolen manufacturers, but our Democratic governor and our Democratic congressman on the important committee on ways and means never raised their voice in protest. It proposed to sustain a 20 percent duty on raw wool for fear of the loss of the wool, while reducing the tariff on finished fabrics below the Gorman-Wilson tariff.

Massachusetts woolen mills have increased their wages 31 percent in the last few years and are now paying their operatives from 100 to 150 percent more than the woolen mills of Europe. Everyone admits that the tariff on manufactured woollens is the only thing that makes it possible for Massachusetts mills to pay these high wages and yet the authors of this new bill themselves estimated that it would give a net protection of only 72 percent to Massachusetts mills, and practical manufacturers believe that the actual protection would be much less than 30 percent.

This radical Democratic woolen bill, framed in ignorance and with an utter disregard for the welfare of New England, menaces one of the chief factors in the prosperity of the Commonwealth. It is the handiwork of men who bear no love for Massachusetts. The bill was introduced that the bill was not a fair revision but was outright destruction of one of the great sources of our prosperity, but they would not wait for the report of the tariff board or heed the protests of President Taft. They forced their bill through Congress with minor changes and encountered no resistance from Congressmen, Senators, Democrats and the only representative of New England on the committee of ways and means. Their vicious bill was killed but it was only killed by the veto of the chief executive, and now they threaten to reintroduce it and pass it at the session of Congress opening in December next. Their aim, for scores, has a challenge to the Commonwealth. It is a challenge to the people of Massachusetts to take up the fight for the protection of their industry.

The Tariff Board has nearly completed its work, and its report will be ready in a few days. It will show that the present tariff is a fair and just one, and that the proposed revision would be a net loss to the industry.

tariff on woolen goods and subject Massachusetts textile workers to the competition of the underpaid labor of Europe without waiting to obtain the facts which this careful study will soon make public. The information has been promised for December next, and the Republican program has been and still is to wait for it, and then to act sanely and intelligently with the honest idea of giving Massachusetts woolen mills enough protection to enable them to make a fair profit after paying as high wages as they are now paying, or even higher, but not enough to enable them to make undue profits. If the facts discovered by the tariff board indicate that reductions in the woolen schedule can be safely made, Republicans believe that they should be made. Massachusetts manufacturers have no objection to this program. What they oppose is, not an intelligent revision as suggested by the Republicans and approved by President Taft, but the reckless spoliation in the name of revision attempted by the Democrats in Congress last winter.

The Disastrous Gorman-Wilson Bill
 The Gorman-Wilson law, even with free wool and more than 10 percent protection, closed most of the woolen mills of the state at one time or another and took their business and gave it to Europe. The Underwood bill, which was voted for by Democrats who call themselves Democrats and by Democrats who call themselves insurgent Republicans, and which taxed raw wool and gave a net protection of less than 30 percent to manufacturing woollens, according to the view of woolen men, would have prostrated the entire industry, and thrown thousands of men out of work.

President Taft has saved this great industry of the state from disaster for the time being, but there is grave danger that some similar bill may be passed and become law in the near future unless Massachusetts shows in no uncertain manner at the election this November that it will not stand behind a party whose representatives are willing to destroy the business of 200 of our manufacturers and the livelihood of over 200,000 of our people.

BOYS OF MAINE.

Editor Hobbs of the Woburn Journal is a Maine boy and in his issue of his paper last week said:

"Does 'Montague,' who writes for publication in the STAR so intelligently and entertainingly concerning the 'Boys of Maine' as to suggest the probability of his having been one of them, call to mind that four of those 'Boys' were prominent members of Congress at the same time from our State? They were the Washburn brothers, John and Fred, a small town in Kennebec county, three of whom emigrated to the West when young men, and the fourth remaining in his native State, by whom he was greatly honored.

The brothers were: Israel Washburn, a lawyer, the oldest of them, whose name was at Union on the Penobscot River, who was Governor of the State; Representative of the Third District in Congress, and finished his political career as Collector of the Port of Bangor. The next was Elihu whose adopted home was Galena, Illinois. He was a prominent lawyer and represented the First Illinois Congressional District in the National House many years, where he was called the "Watch Dog of the Treasury." Capt. U. S. Grant, U. S. A., resigned, took up his residence at Galena in 1855 and entered the employ of his father, who was a hide and leather dealer there, Congressman Washburn was an ardent friend of his and when the War of the Rebellion broke out he induced Governor "Dick" Yates of Illinois to appoint Grant a Brigadier General, the second of which is familiar to every intelligent American man, woman and boy. In 1869, after his inauguration, President Grant appointed Washburn American Ambassador to France, where, in the siege of Paris, in the Franco-German War in 1871, he did more to alleviate the sufferings of the people than the representatives of all other nations combined. The strain of that winter's work in behalf of the besieged and starving Frenchmen undermined his health, and he returned home to Illinois and died. Charles Washburn, the Flour King, represented the Minneapolis District of Minnesota, and William, the Madison, Wisconsin District—all three members of Congress at the same time. Unless, possibly, the service of William was rendered at a different period, which I believe was not the case. But if it was, it is a high and noble record, the family of 'Maine Boys' made."

REGULAR MEETING
 First Monday Evening of Each Month, 7 to 9.

It is a holiday the following evening
 "Thousands are harking at the branches to one who is striking at the root." Whenever an ordinary mortgage is placed on the home it is harking at the branches. When the mortgage is to the Winchester Co-operative Bank it is striking at the root; it is bound to be paid. Whenever you adopt the ordinary method of saving you are harking at the branches, and it becomes a special effort. When you adopt the Winchester Co-operative Bank method, you strike at the root; it is regular and systematic.

A new series of shares is issued at the regular monthly meetings in May and November.

Booklet describing the operation of the Bank will be mailed on request and explanation in greater detail to those calling at this office.

Address all communications to the Bank and not to individuals.

Winchester Lodge A. O. U. W., will give a series of whist parties on Fridays, to be announced.

Pennsylvania railroad officials assert that high heels and hobble skirts are responsible for a large proportion of injuries received by women in getting on and off trains. Even in the new Pennsylvania station in New York, where all descents are gradual and where the stairways are designed with a view to minimizing the possibility of such accidents, women fall victims to these demands of fashion. Chicago has gone even further, and now forbids women to enter train sheds, claiming that they are not only in the way of incoming passengers, but that their high heels cause them to trip over the baggage trucks. But will any of these tend to stop love of woman from flowing fashion's dictates? Somerville Journal.

Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, candidate for Governor, has greatly increased in strength during the past two weeks, and the success of Gov. Foss appears not to be so assured as it was a short time ago.

So long as Wolburn authorities permit boxing, or more properly speaking, slugging contests to take place in that city, no fault should be found because the disorderly element of this part of the State flock there. But the disinterested public should be protected from the rowdies.

The outcome of the coming election is of tremendous importance to the industries of Massachusetts, for if Gov. Foss is re-elected on the platform which he stands, it means disaster and curtailment to many industries, also the lowering of wages and idleness of workmen.

In putting oil on the streets care should be taken to keep the crosswalks free. Ladies' dresses are smeared with the oil resulting in much damage and discomfort. Where it is impossible to keep the walks clean it might be well to sprinkle sand over them. If it was practicable, it might be well to have this work done at night then the oil would have a chance to soak in before morning.

Chester W. Brown and a young lady companion escaped serious injury almost miraculously three days ago when Mr. Brown's Simplex skidded on the car tracks at a sharp curve on North Broadway, Malden, and plunged into Broad way Swamp. Before it came to a stop it turned turtle three times. No doubt the young man would say that he was going at a moderate rate of speed when his machine turned over three times.

Speaker Champ Clark's remark that "reciprocity would be only preliminary to annexation" was most unfortunate. It was instantly caught up by the Canadian opponents to reciprocity and, as an exchange observes, "it acted like a torch applied to the dried grass of a prairie." It set the Dominion on fire and no explanations or denials could satisfy the Canadian voters. Thus was reciprocity defeated by the leader of Democracy in the national house.

It looks as if Mr. W. B. Fay of Medford, Republican candidate for the lower branch of the Legislature, would be returned without opposition, as it is understood that the candidate of the Democratic party has retired. A member of the Winchester Democratic Town Committee was to have notified Mr. Prime of that fact and pledge the support of the voters of that party in the district to him, but he failed to connect in time. Now, it is said, an effort will be made to secure some one to run against Mr. Fay regardless of party. It seems the Democrats of Winchester are very much opposed to giving Medford a third term, indeed more so than are the Republicans, but the difficulty at the present time is to get some strong man in Winchester to run against Mr. Fay. Perhaps it might be well to wait a year and see if the promises made by Medford Republicans to give Winchester three years, was sincere, before steps are taken to defeat Mr. Fay who is now without question the nominee of the Republicans of the district.

If all the people in Winchester were to deposit their savings in the Postal Savings Bank, then our excellent local savings bank and our well managed co-operative bank would have to close their doors and cease doing business. As a result of this, those persons of moderate means who desired to own a home of their own would be unable to do so as then they could not borrow money of those institutions as they now do. Uncle Sam does not loan money for such purposes, nor does he give encouragement to would-be owners of homes as does the savings and co-operative banks. But there need be no fear of this happening, as people who are saving money will place it where it will draw the largest amount of interest, so that the two per cent. of the postal bank will not be a close competitor against the savings bank which pays four per cent. or the co-operative bank which pays five per cent. Another point is this, the first named bank will not be of benefit to Winchester as are the other two home institutions for their money is spent here in building up the town.

PARISH OF THE EPIPHANY.

There will be the service of the Holy Communion next Sunday at 8 o'clock. The hour of Sunday School is 9 a.m. The members of the school are asked to be in their places in the church promptly at that hour.

The Rev. Mr. Kent, the new Rector of St. John's, Arlington, will have charge of the service next Sunday afternoon.

Next Sunday Christ Church, Cambridge, the mother church of Episcopalians in this neighborhood, celebrates its 150th anniversary.

The Parish School Guilding and Miss Mary Conner spoke at last week's service to be held Friday evening, October 27. The North Suburban District Sunday School Union will be held in Everett Wednesday afternoon and evening, October 25.

RUFUS BRIDGES.

Mr. Rufus Bridges passed away at the Soldiers Home, Chelsea, on Wednesday morning in his 68th year. He had been in poor health for several years, having suffered a stroke of paralysis which caused almost total blindness and prevented him from doing any work. For many years he was engaged in the shoemaking and repairing business, his shop being on Main street, Concord place, and finally on Thompson street. He was born in Backusport, Maine, and previous to taking up his residence here, was a shoemaker in Newburyport. He leaves a widow and six children, five sons and one daughter. Mr. Herbert Bridges of Highland avenue, is a son.

MISS JANE RICHARDS ON HER SUMMER IN EUROPE.

A large and highly appreciative audience greeted Miss Jane Richards of Washington on Tuesday evening last, when she gave an interesting talk in the Town Hall hall on her summer travels in Europe, whence she had just returned. Miss Richards who is pleasantly remembered in Winchester for her course of lectures on "Public Questions" given in the Town Hall last winter, preceded her Travel Talk with the assurance that she had no mention of trying the patience of her audience with mere descriptions of scenery that never describe unless the "setting" be already familiar, but should dwell instead upon some of the social, literary, historic and political phases of the places visited.

Miss Richards then conducted her hearers to the extreme North of Europe and gave graphic accounts of visits to the three Scandinavian Capitals, Copenhagen, Stockholm, and Oslo, and the social attentions received in these beautiful cities of the north because of the prominent connection of the International Alliance of Women held in Stockholm in June last when Miss Richards was an accredited delegate. The speaker's accounts of the customs and bonhomies of the Scandinavians and the character of their hospitality were most entertaining as were her descriptions of historic places in Berlin, Rome, Vienna and London. Her account of the Women and Esenach, and later of Dover and Canterbury in England. The audience followed Miss Richards' traveling with close and interested attention throughout, and the prolonged and generous applause at the close showed how great was the interest that the women were taking.

A gratifying sum was cleared for the benevolent work of the Visiting Nurse Association of Winchester.

MISSIONARY TEA.

The Women's Missionary Circle of the First Baptist Church held its annual October tea, Monday evening. This occasion is a regular annual event when the members of the circle make their husbands. It was held at the chapel of the church. Tables had been prettily laid and an especially decorated for the occasion. At the guest table were seated the President, Mrs. Arthur Warren Smith, the guest of the evening, Dr. F. A. Nordell, the pastor, Rev. Henry E. Dodge and Rev. Arthur L. Winn. The speakers were Mrs. K. H. Foss, who warmly served. After the tea had been enjoyed by the nearly eighty present, the President made a brief address in which she congratulated all the speakers on their assistance in the success of the occasion. She referred to the course of study in the Bible which each member of the circle was to follow in the coming year. She then turned to the subject of the Rev. Philip A. Nordell, D.D., the author of several courses in Bible study. Fred upon said Dr. Nordell, D.D., of Newton Theological Institution was to have delivered this address, but was prevented from coming. Mr. Nordell, however, showed himself easily master of the subject and held the attention of the company as he traced the development of the religious ideas of the Hebrew people. At the conclusion of the address, Mr. Nordell sang a solo with appreciation and after a social hour the company broke up feeling the occasion had been a complete success.

THE FORTNIGHTLY.

A large audience listened with great pleasure on Monday to Mr. Ireland Powers who gave "David Copperfield" as a dramatic act. His rendering of Urish Heap and old Peagody were particularly fine, though all his characters seemed actually to live and speak. His work is too well known to need comment, but old friends and new joined in enthusiastic praise of his wonderful talent.

Miss Jean MacLellan sang with much dignity, an old English song by Clay, after Sullivan's, "Oppenhus with Love," and as an encore a manuscript song of Madame Isadora Martinez, "Loving Poems." Miss MacLellan, a pupil of Madame Martinez, is a Winchester singer when the club delights to welcome Madame Martinez who accompanied her is a musician of rare ability. The sympathetic artistic work of these two ladies gave great pleasure.

A committee of twenty-five was appointed by the president to confer with Professor Jadhvi's committee of twenty-five in regard to the work in the line of social activity now under contemplation. The gymnasium and assembly hall of the High school have been offered for this purpose.

The Literature Committee will hold its first meeting in the Library of the High School Friday, October twentieth, at 2:30 p.m. A number of members will give short reviews of the books they enjoyed most during the summer, and a discussion of the year's plans will follow during a social hour over the tea cups. It is hoped that a large number will be interested and will attend.

Mark Twain Headed the Vote.
Mark Twain was quite at his best as an after dinner speaker at the banquet given in his honor some years ago by the members of the Authors' Club. Incidentally he told his amused listeners the story of his first lapse from the paths of honesty. He was very young at the time, he explained, and the day was an exceedingly hot one. As he walked down the street of the village in which he was living he saw a cart loaded with melons of most attractive appearance.
"It is with regret I mention," Mark Twain went on, with a humorous twinkle in his eyes, "that I was tempted and I fell. I grabbed the most likely looking melon of the lot and hurriedly made my way to the back of the woodshed. I gouged a huge slice out of it and bit it. No sooner had I done so when something within me convinced me that I had done wrong. A voice seemed to say, 'Mark, get up and take that melon right back to where you got it from.' It was about the greenest melon I had ever tasted. I went back to the cart and carefully replaced it and took a ripe one in its place."—Boston Traveler.

Curious Old Legend.
Here is a curious legend of Cologne. Once upon a time there was a burgomaster of the town whose wife died and was buried in the evening. The thieves, seeking to take jewels from the dead, opened the coffin. Now it happened that the woman was not dead, but in a trance, and when the thieves broke into her burial place she awoke and went to her home. There she called a servant, who ran in fear to his master and told him what had happened. The scared burgomaster replied to this, "I would sooner believe that my horses were looking out of the top floor window than believe that such a thing could be." Soberly had the words left him, though, than he heard horses galloping up the stairs. In memory of this and of the return of his wife he had two horses' heads in stone set in a top floor window of his house, where they remain to this day.

A Real Patriot.
"Let's see," said the lawyer who had not an out of town acquaintance on a street car, according to the New Orleans Picayune, "doesn't your town soon hold an election?"
"It does."
"And I suppose you take a lively interest in it?"
"Well, not too lively—not as lively as I used to."

"Interest falling off, eh? Didn't you run for mayor two or three years ago?"
"I have run for mayor of my town seven successive times, sir."
"And been—been—"
"Been defeated every time, sir."
"Then you probably won't run again?"
"That's uncertain. I am going to inquire around and find if I am really the man they want. If I am, then I will take the candidacy. If not, then I will try to defeat the man they do want."

The Line of Life.
The line of life curves from the side of the hand between the thumb and forefinger around the base of the thumb to the center of the wrist joint. According to chiromancy the pretense of art of judging the character and foretelling the fortune of a person from the aspect of the hand, if this line in the left palm is regular and evenly colored it predicts a long and happy life; tortuous, colorless, feebly marked and broken it announces ill health and short life; narrow, but long and well colored it indicates wisdom and in plenty; broad and pale it is a sign of folly; deep and unequally colored it denotes malice.—New York Telegram.

Coronation Graft.
The practice of running the funerals and condiments with wine on coronation day was abandoned after the reign of Queen Elizabeth, but another old custom was observed up to the coronation of George IV. After the king and the company had departed from the banquet in Westminster hall the doors were thrown open, and the people rushed in and cleared the tables of everything—drinks, clothes, plates, dishes, etc., all vanished in a few minutes. And, as Sir Walter Scott tells us, the nobility were not always taking away the subterfuges and spoils.

An Office Cushion.
If those of you who have a husband or brother or sister working in an office will go to the trouble of making a flat cushion for the chair of the worker you will find that it saves the trousers or skirt from getting "slingy" and also helps to retain the garment in form—Good Housekeeping.

Speaking Truth.
Speaking truth is like writing fair and comes only by practice. It is less a matter of will than of habit, and I doubt if any occasion can be trivial which permits the practice and formation of such a habit.—Ruskin.

Time to Go.
"Pa, is a time to go?"
"Yes, you may tell that."
"Well, what kind of a boat is a boat?"
"A boat is a boat. Now run away to bed."—Ruskin.

Not Fast.
"I understand," says the father, "that you have been going with a very fast set."
"Fast nothing!" retorts the son. "Why, not one of them has a four cylinder car!"—Judge.

The essential thing is not knowledge but character.—Le Conte.

HUNTED BY A WALRUS.

The Big Bull Got Quite Sociable Before He Was Done For.
In George Burry's "A Tenderfoot With Peary" appears an exciting incident of walrus hunting. During a raid upon a herd of fifty walrus asleep on a pan "it was blowing snow, and the choppy waves made the shooting look as if the guns had spiral barrels." The ineffective target practice produced these hair raising developments a few seconds later: "Suddenly a giant bull rose out of the water just along side of Westhousen. He threw his harpoon, but as the bull came off he might as well have thrown a lead pencil. The walrus gave a derisive grunt, dived, and a second later shot out of the water on the other side, deigned us with liquid and came down slap bang on the gunwale of the boat opposite me."

"By this time Westhousen was high in the air and out for an altitude record. Instead of throwing his harpoon he threw his own into his jaws and just spit in the brute's face. The other huskies were trying to back water or hit him over the head with the oars, nearly swooping me and making a short recruiting their cussing at Westhousen, the walrus and everything is general."
"All this time the walrus was sitting alongside of me, asking if there were any more at home like Westhousen. It was easier to pull his whiskers or smash his mug with my fist than shoot. If I held the gun to my shoulder the muzzle would stick beyond his head, so, firing from the hip, I gave him the entente cordiale."

GETTING THE FACTS.

His Second Story Probably Differed From the First One.

Long experience as a consulting attorney has given Mr. Mooney a judicial habit of mind. He never accepts the facts at par value, but always leads those facts into the rear office and drops all in their eyes. The other day a friend rushed in, warm and red.

"Mooney," said the friend excitedly, "I've been insulted. Hinks just met me and called me all sorts of names. We've had trouble over that partition matter, you know. He said I was a pettifogger and a thief and a scoundrel and a perjurer and a wire haired thing."

"Um," said Mr. Mooney, sitting farther down in his chair and looking at the speaker over his glasses. "Um! And what do you propose to do about it?"
"What do I propose to do about it? Why, I was so astounded at the moment that I could make no reply at all. But, now that I have somewhat recovered myself, I have determined to go down to Hink's office and knock his block off. I'll beat him ten quivering froths."

"Um!" said Mr. Mooney, slipping down a notch. "Um! So would I if my only method were the manner that Hinks called you. But before you go suppose you sit down with me for a moment."

The indignant friend took a chair. "Now," said Mooney, dangling his eyeglasses, "what are the facts in the case?" On an anvil Times Star.

The Boston Herald

Said Editorially:

That Shawmut avenue woman who on discovering a suspicious looking man in her house, first chatted with him and then called the police by telephone, did the prompt thinking of which the police would like to have more evidence. The police stations have facilities for sending a policeman or a squad of them to any place at short notice. A telephone call is all that is needed to get the force in motion. Many households forget at times that the telephone is about the best kind of watch they can have.

Herald Oct. 10.

In emergencies, when police, doctors or firemen may be wanted, the telephone is the quickest and most trustworthy messenger.

No timid woman should be left alone when, under the new rates, residence telephone service can be had as cheaply as 6 cents a day. Even if no danger threatens, its mere presence is a comfort.

Call the Rate Department, Fort Hill 7600
(free from any Metropolitan District Telephone) and a Contract Agent will give particulars

FOOT BALL.

The game scheduled for last Saturday afternoon with Doham High School had to be postponed on account of rain. It was played on Monday, however, and resulted in a victory for Winchester. The home team and an altogether different one came from the field. Capt. Emery was shifted from his old position at center to full back. Whitley went from back to full back, and Meyer and Elliott played in the line. The change brought great results. Every tack play, with one exception, worked out without an error and made great gains for the home team on one take toward pass. Whitley, after a year for a touchdown. This is but one example of the many long runs which came to make.

In every way Winchester's lackluster show of a better knowledge of the game and it they only kept it up now on, they ought to have no trouble in winning the rest of the games on the schedule.

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The first anniversary of the Union Sign is a happy occasion to the members of the Union, for it is a reminder of the many good deeds which have been done in the past year. It is a reminder of the many good deeds which have been done in the past year. It is a reminder of the many good deeds which have been done in the past year.

It is not too early to remind the members of the Union and their friends that there are many calls for help and other agencies of the Flower Mission and the Thanksgiving box is now being filled. There is one of the most desired articles and now is the time to make an extra supply. Mrs. E. M. Adams of Dix street will be glad to receive contributions at any time from anyone.

The National W. C. T. U. convention

for the last of its month in Mechanics, this morning the north in its day. The W. C. T. U. is very strong in the Boston City.

A Psalm of David. Psalm LXXXV.

Golden Text: The Lord hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad. Ps. cxviii 3.

(1) Verse 1.—What captivity did the Psalmist here refer to, and what were the circumstances of their return?

(2) How much of the prosperity of our land and nation depends upon the favor of the Lord?

(3) A verse 2.—In what sense may it be true that God forgives a nation its sins?

(4) If a nation is forgiven its sins, why would that not include every individual in the nation?

(5) On what conditions does God forgive individuals their sins?

(6) What takes place in the heart of God, and in the soul of the sinner, when God forgives sinners?

(7) A verse 3.—How does a Christian, in his conduct, show that he is a true member of the church?

(8) A verse 4.—What did the Psalmist mean when he prayed that the nation may be revived?

(9) What is the great need of the nation and the world today?

(10) How may a Christian live so as to "rejoice" in the Lord all the time?

(11) Verse 5.—May a person so live that he does not need to ask for God's mercy?

(12) What does the "salvation" of God include?

(13) A verse 6.—How does God speak and does he actively answer questions or give silent directions?

(14) What is the "voice" of God? (15) What does it "say" to "lay upon the heart of the people?"

(16) A verse 7.—What effect does the personal salvation of individuals have upon the "glory" or prosperity of a nation?

(17) Verse 8.—When we experience the mercy of God, does that always make us the "lovers of truth" who?

(18) A verse 9.—How does God speak and does he actively answer questions or give silent directions?

(19) What is the "voice" of God? (20) What does it "say" to "lay upon the heart of the people?"

(21) A verse 10.—What effect does the personal salvation of individuals have upon the "glory" or prosperity of a nation?

(22) Verse 11.—When we experience the mercy of God, does that always make us the "lovers of truth" who?

SEATS IN CARS OF B. & M.

A comparison of the SEAT in the B. & M. car with the SEAT in the other cars of the same class, shows that the SEAT in the B. & M. car is the most comfortable and the most practical. The SEAT in the B. & M. car is the most comfortable and the most practical. The SEAT in the B. & M. car is the most comfortable and the most practical.

In common with many other patrons of the B. & M. road, therefore I have been desirous recently to see placed upon the Fitchburg division new cars manufactured in Worcester containing a seat with three cushions in the back. I suppose the top one was intended for a head rest. The next curve catches the average man just below the shoulders and then falls away so that he cannot get the small of his back against the upholstery at all being presented from one side only a third of the bottom. As I have watched around morning trying to find a comfortable spot on these seats, I have watched my fellow passengers here and there about the car, some of them with their arms folded and their backs, others leaning forward away from the seats along the floor, and I have been led to address the B. & M. management on the subject of the SEAT in the B. & M. car.

It is a pity that the B. & M. management should not have been more careful in the construction of the SEAT in the B. & M. car. A STATE WIDE CAMPAIGN FOR HUMANITY TO ANIMALS

M. S. P. C. A. Sends Out Field Lecturer to Travel
Through the State

Arranges for Campaign of Education Through the Newspapers

A state wide campaign having for its object the bettering of the conditions of dumb animals and the prevention of cruelty to beasts and birds has been undertaken by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The agent Edward H. Packard has been placed in the field as a traveling lecturer, with instructions to visit every city and town in the state, every fair and slaughter-house. He will also visit fairs, camps, large stables and dairies, and buttonhole people with whom he comes in contact in his efforts to further the cause of the Society. A campaign of educating through the newspapers will also be conducted, boys and cats being furnished by the papers on topics treating of dumb animals, and the work of the Society.

The aim is not only to endeavor to better the conditions of dumb beasts and six district or county officers are included among the Society's agents.

The first traveling agent commissioned in this or any other country was appointed by the Governor of Maine in 1897, at the request of the Farmington Humane Society. The agent is Dr. J. H. Rollin, a man of lifelong experience with horses. Since then traveling agents have been appointed in many states with the power of arrest where prosecution is required.

Much cruelty has been prevented by agents in Massachusetts, especially in the country districts, at slaughter-houses and amongst the peddlers. It is the aim of the Society, however, to push preventative work. It is always disagreeable to prosecute people, however much it may be necessary, and it is felt by the officers that much of this prosecution can be avoided by educating owners up to a better standard of treatment of their animals. Results in the past have been encouraging, although it is surprising to the uninitiated to discover how much ill-treatment of poor dumb beasts is practised throughout the state. From May, 1911, to Sept. 1, 1911, there were 92 prosecutions and 82 convictions of cruelty made by agents of the Society. There were 15,175 animals examined and 563 horses taken from work. There were 296 humanely killed to end their suffering. Over 55,000 animals were examined during the year 1910 and there were over 12,000 complaints received. Prosecutions numbered 724 and convictions 267. Over 100 animals were killed, nearly all of these old and worn out horses. There have been over one million animals examined from 1881 to the present time, with nearly 10,000 prosecutions for cruelty or ill-treatment for the same period.

During the past summer ten watering stations were maintained in Boston alone, and 251,971 horses were watered in that city.

Among the publications issued by the Society are the monthly magazine, "Our Dumb Animals," various leaflets, a summary of the Massachusetts laws relating to dumb animals, by teaching the people how to look after them and that it is for the interest of the owner as well as the animal that the latter should be well treated, but also to raise a fund of a million dollars to found a hospital for animals in Boston. At this hospital skilled veterinarians will be on duty, with trained assistants, and every modern appliance for the treatment of sick and injured animals will be installed. Plans are now being considered for the means of raising the necessary million.

Mr. Packard's mission is unique. Campaigning is a new idea. The Society has about 100 agents throughout the state, and their duty is to keep an eye open for cruelty to or ill-treatment of animals and report such cases or prosecution under the state laws. Wide as is the circulation of "Our Dumb Animals," the Society's organ, it is the determination of the officers of the organization to increase it until it reaches with its educational work, every home in the state. Hence the appointment of a traveling lecturer. When a fair or other place is reached, Mr. Packard will report to the Society, who will send out a group of speakers who will visit places where a number of the kind of kindness of dumb animals may be secured with effect.

Besides the 100 agents, the Boston headquarters has a staff of 25 people, who are kept constantly busy. The office can be reached by telephone at any time of day or night when any case of cruelty or neglect may be reported. A chief prosecuting officer

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Day of Everett avenue have returned home from a visit to Chicago.

The State Board of Health has reported on the alleged North Warren street nuisance. The report puts the duty of abating any nuisance of this kind squarely up to the Woman's Guild of health, and says that the price of the subject is properly within the jurisdiction of the State Board. It is the possible contamination of the water in the Abington river. It has cautioned the tannery owners in this vicinity against the methods at present employed in the treatment of the refuse and suggests its removal by a distant point and mixing it with loam.

At the annual meeting of the Winchester Corporation, held Monday evening, a new set of officers was elected. The following officers were elected: Howard D. Nash, president and director; George A. Leland, vice president and director; G. O. Everett, secretary, treasurer and director; J. John Chellis, James J. Felt, and Alexander Foster, Jr., Charles A. Glasson, Alfred H. Hill, George C. Miller, Samuel F. Newman, Henry Nickerson, Francis J. O'Hara, Samuel S. Symmes, Nathan H. Taylor, directors; D. W. Pratt, Francis S. Spurr and Henry C. Robinson, auditors.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

History tells us that a man by the name of Blood once made his way into the room where the royal treasure was kept, overpowered the guard and stole away the crown of England's sovereign. That was judged to be a great robbery and a horrible crime. The man was hunted north, south, east and west, and severely punished. But the spectator wants to emphasize that this man Blood is not the only thief who has stolen a crown. Times without number inquiry has broken into the palace of the human heart and stolen away the crown that gives real royalty and imperial worth. The crown of England has great value. The Spectator freely confesses, but its worth is insignificant when compared with that of the crown of character. People are robbed every day. The crown of purity has been stolen from the brow of certain youth, and the crown of victory has been stolen from those who might conquer if they would, the crown of service has been stolen from those who might live to the greatest purpose, the crown of happiness from those who might experience the greatest joy, the crown of prosperity from men and women who might succeed beyond all expectation. To enjoy the pleasures of wrong doing no matter how considerable the degree, men and women whom The Spectator might name, have cast aside the crown of self-determination and moral judgment.

Some day the public school buildings in this Commonwealth will be used for a great many purposes, of that The Spectator is confident. A Winchester gentleman who recently returned from Rochester, New York, where the public school buildings are used for all kinds of purposes, every cultivated and gives The Spectator to understand that ultimately the schoolhouses will be open twice to fourteen hours a day every day in the week, including Sunday. On a number of occasions The Spectator has heard prominent townsmen suggest that it would be a progressive step if the school houses were more used for public lectures and for debating societies, which should be formed in towns by women's organizations as reading rooms and public library stations. And The Spectator believes with one of the leading librarians of this county that "public libraries, instead of lending so much of their energy to securing special buildings for branch libraries, the evidence of which diverts library activities from school activities, should try to induce cities and towns to put library rooms in school buildings." All these things will be perfectly easy to do, as soon as the people realize that they can be done.

Although there are men and women, too, here in Winchester and elsewhere who will disagree with him, The Spectator maintains that woman suffrage is long past the time when it should be a subject for heated discussion. Suffragists are extremely well-to-do in this county. In fact, their whole party is the unbalanced system of government which prevails under an exclusive manhood. And The Spectator is quite aware that in exclusive woman rule would be a little improvement over present methods. Women would be able to correct many valuable ideas into the new regime of government, but it is well to remember that man, great and wise as he believes himself to be, represents only one half of the knowledge of the world, even as he is only one half of the human race. Under the now and more equitable system to be inaugurated, there will probably be fewer expensive and needless lawsuits filed, and not one of the "Department of Theory" suggested by one Winchester gentleman, there will be a department devoted to industrial conditions among women and children. The money necessary for the maintenance of this department will be forthcoming without the limitation experienced by our women on a former occasion, when such a department was petitioned for when a certain member of Congress, in a speech which The Spectator has not forgotten opposing a small appropriation for such a department to know "What is the Congress of the United States to do with women and children, anyhow?" But then, the honorable gentleman had not been elected by the women, or any part of them, and hence he was precisely sure in expressing himself thus. And then, too, after all he was quite right, for under the present one-sided system of government what has the Congress of the United States to do with women and children, anyhow?

Animal intellect and behavior is a subject in which The Spectator is deeply interested and he has made a delicate and extended study thereof. The Spectator confesses it is somewhat strange that so few people seem to have any genuine interest in the subject. L. and Arthur Winchester's intellectual conduct is such that he recalls more than two individuals who have evinced any interest in the study of animal intelligence. Of course it is one of the most difficult of studies and The Spectator has to admit that very few specialists are admitted to the subject, possibly because they entertain far too many theories and ideas that are a hindrance. The Spectator would like to call attention to a reader of THE STAR who must have something to offer in connection with this subject. Perhaps now that The Spectator has suggested the subject some of our townsmen and townswomen of culture will become interested. However, he is free to confess that he may be premature in this field at least here in Winchester.

There has recently fallen into the hands of The Spectator a book issued by the government fully describing and illustrating 1,000 to 1,500 different kinds of edible mushrooms. At the Winchester public library may be found numerous books to the edible and poisonous fungi, and every unbridled dictionary accurately describes the difference between the commonest of the edible mushrooms, the Agaricus campestris, and the commonest of the poisonous kind, the Death Cup of Amanita. The Spectator believes it impossible, however, to teach every person how to distinguish between the good and the bad. Descriptions in books do not suffice. Nothing but persistent observations, with specimens at both kinds in hand to show their distinguishing difference, will teach a person to select the edible mushroom with unvarying certainty. The Spectator would not advise any Winchesterite to go out in the fields in search of mushrooms, unless he is able to know the edible kind at sight without mistake.

It is one of the follies of humanity to believe and carry evil report. It may be one manifestation of the selfishness of the race, but a wise man who lived centuries ago said that "Love thinketh no evil." The nagging tongue is a dangerous weapon and a two edged one, since it brings woe to its owner as well as its victim. Idle gossip breeds many kinds of ill consequences, yet, how common a fault it is here in Winchester as elsewhere. The law sets us a good example in punishing every man arraigned for wrong to the innocent and proved guilty, and it gives him the benefit of every doubt, convicting him only upon the most conclusive evidence. So much should in their private social intercourse should prefer to believe good of each other rather than evil. Some people would do well to adopt the maxim of law, either of the Puritan doctrine of thinking no evil, or the modern statute of holding every man innocent until proved guilty. The Spectator wants to urge that such a precept put in practice would tend to offset the evil of idle gossip. It is always possible to hear bad things of good men, but no good can come of repeating them. The moral code set the example by forbidding "false witness against thy neighbor" and in this it has never been improved upon.

The Spectator.

BIASING COMPLAINT.

The hearing on the petition of the Commonwealth Trap Rock company for permission to store dynamite on their property at the Wolcott line, Winchester Highlands was continued until November 25 by the Wolcott city council last Thursday night, owing to the inability of the counsel for the company, Assistant District Attorney Henry C. Sawyer, to be present. A large number of the residents were present.

Alderman Corrigan asked if the Commonwealth Trap Rock company had a license to blast and on being informed that they had none he moved and the committee voted that the mayor take such steps as may be necessary to stop the storing of dynamite and blasting by the company until after the hearing.

The residents claimed that owing to the dangerous nature of the explosive which the company desires to store, their safety is jeopardized. A premature explosion is not an unlikely occurrence, they claim, and should such an accident happen the results would not be damaging to property, but might also cause loss of life. The shock of the blasts are so felt, they claim, injures their property often causing whole panes of glass to fall from the windows and weakening the foundations of the buildings in the vicinity to the extent of depreciating the value of the property. Residents of the entire section of Winchester Highlands have also suffered from the blasting.

They laid to say any benefit derived by the city through having the rock company established there.

WILLIS—STEPHENSON.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at 11:45 a. m. Friday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin I. Stephenson, 26 Symmes road, when Miss L. Marguerite Stephenson was married to Frank Leon Willis of Melrose and Somerville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Willis. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joel F. Ritchie of the Unitarian Church.

The bride wore a gown of brown cloth with a white blue embroidery and a collar of old duchess lace, a family heirloom. She carried a bouquet of marguerites and yellow Kasia Anglaise roses. Her sister, Miss Helen Clark Stephenson, was bridesmaid. Lawrence Miles Willis, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mr. Charles M. Thompson, former town engineer and member of the Board of Health was in town last Friday afternoon visiting friends. Mr. Thompson and family are living at Sandwich, he being the real estate agent of the Cape Cod Canal and a farmer engineer. He is erecting a handsome house at Sandwich which he expects to occupy next spring. He says the canal will be fully open to travel in 1913. Work has reached the stage that the railroad trains to Woods Hole now cross the Monument river and the canal by the new roll-in bridge. The old bridge at this point will be removed at once, thus permitting the dredges to enter the canal from the Buzzards Bay side where they can push the digging with greater speed than ever.

The usual days of Cape Cod are over at hand.

CHRISTMAS EDITION IN PREPARATION.

An elaborate holiday page cover has been selected for the 1912 Christmas edition of the STAR and the stock will arrive this week. Preparations for the edition are already in hand and it is suggested that advertisers who wish to "get in" on this edition should engage space early.

The front cover presents Santa Claus in an air ship, distributing gifts such as the coming people like to see pictured, and the older people like to see. A fancy border is around the entire page and a similar border appears on the last page. It is the handsomest picture design for the holiday, that we have ever seen. The cover section will be a part of the regular issue, comprising Christmas poems and stories, and local matter of interest. An extra large edition will be printed and the date of publication will be Friday, Dec. 15, ten days before Christmas.

CROSS COUNTRY RUN.

The cross country team representing Arlington High School won the cross country run over the Winchester course last Friday. In a driving rain the runners set out from the station and following the course up the boulevard as far as the High School, turned down Main street. Goldsmith of Arlington took the lead, only to die in the race and although lacking under the disadvantage of spikes, held the place over Bacon Street and to the finish at the straightaway on Manchester Field. McDermott of Stonham ran a good race and captured second place, Cozens of Arlington was third. The Winchester runners were in rather poor condition, owing to lack of training and were hopelessly outclassed, although Charnon finished well up with the leaders. The teams finish in the following order: Arlington, Stonham, Woburn and Winchester.

THE PILGRIM CLUB.

The Pilgrim Club spent a very profitable and pleasant evening last Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Bean of 52 Myrtle terrace, discussing "The Chinese Rebellion."

Refreshments of a real "pilgrim" nature were very much enjoyed by all.

This Club was recently organized with a Council consisting of Mr. Robert H. Bean, Governor, Miss Mabel W. Stinson, Secretary, and Mr. Robert E. Fay, treasurer, and its purpose is to keep all-around the towns and make a study of the world's wars, both secular and religious.

The meetings will be held on the second and fourth Friday evenings of each month.

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

"But I am perfectly comfortable and satisfied without the vote. What's the use of trying to get it?" That one of Winchester's suffragists told the Spectator the other day is the hardest argument that the suffragists have to deal with. And then she told the Spectator of one woman in particular who had refused to give her support to the movement on that ground. When Marie Antoinette, at the time of the French revolution, was told that the common people were rising against the nobility because they did not have bread to eat, she asked in wonder: "Then why don't they eat cake?" "What is the use of changing conditions?" says the lady who has so much of the cake of life that she doesn't know what it means to need bread, and rather wonders why the people who lack it don't eat cake. Are you a suffragist? If you are, not, and it's because you have studied the subject and believe with all your heart that the country would lose more than it would gain if women were allowed to vote, then The Spectator disagrees with you, but still honors you. It is because you know nothing about the subject and either are too comfortable or too indifferent to try to know anything about it, then The Spectator is thoroughly ashamed of you. And you ought to be ashamed of yourself. No woman has a right to remain ignorant of any great movement, the result of which would affect her sex. It women get the ballot and it does them harm, it is your fault, not having done your duty. If women look to get the ballot when good might have resulted, it is your fault, not not having fought for it. "But I have not enough influence to make any difference one way or the other," perhaps you say. Let The Spectator recall to you a little rhyme so very homely and familiar that you may have forgotten how great a meaning it has.

"Little drops of water,

"Little grains of sand,

Make the mighty ocean,

And the heathens land."

A gentleman interested in the public schools cites the investigations made by a Boston teacher with respect to the comparative average earnings of men who as boys had or had not been through the High School, as following argument for a practical commercial course in High Schools. The total earnings of the elementary school boy in the twelve years after leaving school averaged $5,722.50, while those of the High School boy in the same period were $7,375.50.

As The Spectator recalls the deductions of the teacher in question, however, the investigation made no especial reference to commercial courses. It was with reference to ordinary High School training, whether following the commercial line or not. In fact, it was the element of mental training on which the report insisted. Boys who had been through the High School were developed mentally more completely and more broadly than boys who had not. Their minds were more active, alert, competent, in short, in better form. They had not merely been prepared for a definite line of work, they had been better educated. This is not to say that practical commercial courses may not be useful, but it is to say that the education which is most worth while is far broader in its scope.

A Winchester gram dealer informs The Spectator that there is no demand for wild oats.

There are men here in Winchester as elsewhere who think they could endure the troubles of other people better than their own.

A gentleman lets drop the remark that one of the best things to have for a rainy day is a friend who has an umbrella to lend.

There are men here in Winchester who open their morning mail at the breakfast table. The Spectator has recently learned that this is a very dangerous thing to do. Prof. Krom a German scientist, has succeeded in tracing several cases of contagion to the old custom of waiting until you sit down at the breakfast table before opening your morning mail. He calls attention to the fact that the average man and woman goes down to breakfast with face as clean as a Frenchman's, teeth scrubbed and hair combed. In that condition he is prepared to eat without danger of swallowing more disease germs than may have possibly escaped the watchful attentions of the cook. But instead of doing that, he handles letters and papers which have passed through many hands before reaching his own. Between bites he opens envelopes and wrappers, and is doing so, unknowingly paves the way for the absorption of all kinds of germs which may, or may not, do him a great deal of harm. It has long been the custom in many well-regulated households in Winchester and elsewhere where the breakfast hour is fixed somewhat late and where the man carrier gets around before breakfast is served, to place each person's morning letters in his or her plate the evening before. This, says Prof. Krom, is a custom which should be abolished at once.

AUTO FIRE APPARATUS

Being Considered by Cities and Towns in this Vicinity.

The fire department committee of the board of aldermen of the city of Medford held a public hearing recently, at which the following facts regarding the auto fire engine were brought out. The experiences of other cities were given as examples of the benefits and advantages to be derived from auto apparatus in general. The first great advantage shown was the speed in reaching a fire, even the heaviest pieces of apparatus attaining the rate of 30 miles an hour.

The apparatus can go any distance to any number of fires, where horses would be physically unable to go. It can carry a larger number of men—in fact at the recent test in Lawrence, the piece of apparatus of the type which the city may possibly buy, carried as many men as could get on board, that is, about 20 men.

Every man who rides to a fire on this kind of apparatus is available to actually fight the fire, which is not true in the case of horse-drawn apparatus, for with the horse-drawn apparatus the driver must stand by his horses after reaching the fire.

In the case of an auto engine, which takes the place of a steamer and a hose wagon, two pieces of horse-drawn apparatus are thus replaced by one motor driven vehicle.

In a motor driven engine the same power plant which drives the machine to the fire, by the simple shifting of a cog, is made to drive the pump which throws the water, and in addition it carries 1,500 feet of hose, a chemical tank with 500 feet of hose and two or three fire extinguishers.

And it will also carry as many men as can get on board. Displacing a steamer and a hose wagon with this kind of apparatus saves space in the stables as a house-hold for the housing of auto apparatus needs no stable nor, nor, and with the result that the building cost is very much cheaper and the men could be given much better quarters, not being forced to live in the same building with animals and listen to their kicking and pouncing at all hours of the night.

A piece of auto apparatus needs no exercise and unlike the horse-drawn vehicle, is ready to go at any time, and is not apt to be caught 50 or 60 miles distance away from the stable in an exercise wagon when an alarm is sounded.

A summary of the various advantages of auto-driven fire apparatus would seem to indicate that the advantages were all with the auto apparatus, it being much more efficient and much less expensive to operate than horse-drawn apparatus.

Major Taylor was an interested listener and said: "I have been putting considerable time and thought into the fire department since I assumed office and I have come to the conclusion that the efficiency of the department is not in proportion to the cost of operation and it seems that an auto-driven engine at the Central Station would be a city in that it would increase the efficiency of the department."

"Another advantage is, that this piece of apparatus could answer all alarms and some part of the equipment that it carries could be used at every and any fire, for either the hand extinguisher, the chemical, the hose to be attached to the hydrant, or the pump to take the place of the steamer, would be available."

TABOOED CIGARETTE AT HIGH SCHOOL BALL.

While the class of 12 Woburn High School were entertaining their fellow students and friends at the High School dance party Friday evening, an impassioned debate over the tobaccoed cigarette and the society tried school boys figured prominently.

It is generally known that a standing rule exists at the High School which forbids smoking in or about the building and since taking charge of the school, Principal George W. Low has endeavored to see that this rule was enforced, and on numerous occasions the young men of the school have stood and studied the design on the office carpet, and, repentant, at the thought of the "extras" that would be inflicted upon them for their folly.

Friday night three young men members of the school, "took a chance" and smoked a few "sticks" on the steps of the school before the dance and were caught by Master Low who summarily expelled them from the building with the orders that they were not to participate in the general spirit of jollity that was scheduled to prevail within. So while good humor reigned within the heavens rained without and two of the boys took themselves away into the night bemoaning their ill luck and the irony of fate.

The third member of the trio, denied the worth of the master to such an extent that he ventured into the hall and danced the light fantastic with a tan companion. Mr. Low, eyeing the ostracized one immediately corralled him and informed the boy that he could not continue with his dance. First, however, the principal inquired of the young woman if the summary exit of her escort would necessitate her quitting the gay scene. She informed the master that she was not "afraid to go home in the dark" and that her sister would accompany her when she was ready to go.

So with no ties to bind him further, the young man went out and the dance went on and now the students are murmuring "What will the harvest be?" All were at school Monday. Mr. Low probably will not take any action officially that would be likely to light their careers, but it is rumored that the parental wrath is likely to be invoked, with less pitiless publicity but with more immediately painful results.—Woburn News.

LADIES' FRIENDLY DRAMATICS Assisted by a cast of ten young ladies, the Ladies' Friendly Society comedy "Miss Fearless & Co." was given most successfully last Friday evening in Metcalf Hall of the Unitarian Church. The performance was the annual presentation by the society and was attended by a large gathering, which thoroughly enjoyed the work of the young ladies.

The comedy was given in three acts by the following cast: Miss Margaret Henley, an heiress; Miss Ephraim Addison, her chaplain; Dorothea Chase; Miss Sarah Jane Lovejoy, from the "Last Nation"; Marjorie Root; Katie O'Connor, Miss Henley's maid; June Root; Miss Barbara Livingstone, Miss Bettie Cameron, Miss Marion Reynolds, Miss Henley's guests; Richard Metcalf; Marion Hazelton; Helen Lewis.

Miss Elias, Miss Alice, the Silent Sisters; Marcia Hazelton; Pauline Sweetser; supposed to be Jack Eggleston and James Bradley.

Act 1—A room in Miss Henley's country house. Acts 2 and 3—Interior of cottage on Spook Island. A week is supposed to elapse between Acts 2 and 3.

The comedy was under the direction of Miss M. Alice Mason and Mrs. George H. Root. Telling followed the entertainment.

A SOCIAL CLEARING HOUSE.

A year ago this fall, in a letter to the STAR, the suggestion was made by a prominent Winchester gentleman that this office open a "Social Clearing House," and at various times during the year similar suggestions and requests have been received.After considering the matter we have decided to undertake this innovation and will open such a department the first of the year.This is a decided novelty and something which has probably never been attempted in any town in this vicinity.
Its success will depend wholly upon the co-operation of the townspeople and all are urged to take a personal interest in it.By means of this clearing house any one can receive information of all social meetings of gatherings on any date desired, it only being necessary to telephone to the STAR office. Thus in arranging for a social event of any nature those in charge may receive at once information concerning the dates selected for any other events.To make this a success, all secretaries of organizations or committees of arrangements should telephonically or in person advise the STAR office of their plans.
This does not imply that all notices of social events shall be given publicly in the STAR. The Editor will always be pleased to receive the wishes of the townspeople regarding such announcement, and a public notice is not desired
if it should not be given.During each winter many social events have conflicted, sometimes even calling for the postponement of one or the other.
With a social clearing house this need not occur.All events of a social nature, both public and semi-private, should be given announcement in this office and notices of all events arranged for a date preceding the first of January be sent to this office at once. Tel. 29.The social life of Winchester occupies a leading place in the activities of the town and it is fitting that this town should have the first "Social Clearing House."
No attempt will be made to supply a complete list until after Dec. 31st.

On Sunday evening at nine o'clock an alarm of fire was rung in from box 35 for a blaze in the old John B. Mear estate at the corner of Oak and Hall streets. When the firemen arrived they found two fires going, each separate from the other. One was in the cellar in a pile of rubbish and the other a better bed in a chamber. The house is occupied by two Italian families, the parties living in the side in which the fire occurred being away during the day. It appeared that residents in the neighborhood had smelt smoke during the afternoon, but did not trace it to the house until it became so dense that the family in the other side found where it originated. The fire was put out with hand chemicals. On Tuesday afternoon the State police were in town investigating the fire.

CENTER OF GOOD VALUES

YOUR AFFAIRS AND MINE.

The Spectator has received the following from a reader of THE STAR:

Dear Spectator: Will you kindly inform me regarding a matter of grammar that is puzzling me. When I say "You were there," meaning one person, and I correct, or should I say "You were there," meaning one person?

A grammarian informs The Spectator that the grammar has been revised in several things, and now the young are taught to say "You were" for singular, as the pronoun "You" is both singular and plural. The Spectator well remembers being taught to say "You was" for singular, but "won't do it any more," it is considered incorrect now. "You was," which is now incorrect, was once, like many other vulgarisms, good English. It became common in the eighteenth century and remained in good use nearly a century. Walpole used it in the following quotation: "I was sorry you was disappointed of going to Vallombrosa." And Cowper said: "As I told you when you was here."

Every man and woman in Winchester needs determination. Ambition is not enough. A poet has well said:—

Ambition points out the way for you,
And keen is your expectation;
But it great things you are going to do
What you need is determination.

So stick to your task with an iron will,
Let nothing that happens break it;
The pathway is rough and steep the hill,
The better for those who make it.

Ambition starts us upon our way,
And hope lays the first foundation.
But if you are going to win some day,
What you need is determination.

Success is a thing that thousands here
Sigh moodily for and sigh for;
A diadem that through distant tear
They haven't the nerve to try for.

Ambition plants in each man's breast
Desire for a greater station;
But if you are going to obtain the best
What you need is determination.

Most stories which have their source in the public library are at the expense of the book lover. In the following story told The Spectator by a gentleman on the bank behind the desk. In a little country town up in the State of Maine a certain philanthropist created a small library. The small paying position of librarian was hard to fill, but the vacancy was finally filled by an old farmer who promised to do his best, though admitting that he knew very little about the needs of such a place, and knew much less about the names of any "library books." His rule was very peculiar and satisfactory for a time, and he began to acquire the dignity that usually marks such a responsible position. One day, however, a stranger entered and, stepping to the desk asked for the "Latter of James Lowell Welsh." "Young man," answered the farmer, showing up in true book guardian dignity, "you'll find the post office a square below."

A gentleman remarks that it man and government treated and ostracized women as the latter are treated and ostracized in Turkey, there would be no trouble about suffrage, about divided skirts or about latrines. He does not say that this ought to be. He only points out to The Spectator that it is, was, and is a different state of things would be presented for consideration and, if consideration whatever of them would be hunted to mere man. What will not be and cannot be, can, nevertheless, be contemplated with attraction, or with honor, by the imagination.

Recently a man was met who 12 years ago was committed to prison for the fact for a murder he did not commit. The real murderer made a death-bed confession. The Spectator had quite a lengthy interview with the visitor and is more convinced than ever that capital punishment is not justified. Suppose this man had been hung and later on the confession of the man who actually committed the crime had been found innocent, could the State have restored to him his life? Could there have been any reparation to the individual or his conviction? The case presents a potent argument against capital punishment. The man has been found innocent, the State restores him to his life and liberty, and no more. Had he been executed, the State could make no reparation and would wish he a murderer.

Here are a few ridiculous puzzles:—

Pugnacious disparages argument in hospitable collisions.
St. rined hallucinations obsess. Tantalical demities.
Austine's pregratiation assuave morbid indignations.
Insectivorous provocations generate erosions prolatitudes.
Indecorous intentions facilitate in stimulation enjunctments.
Bargantuan accomplishments necessitate penal hostilities.
Penituous environments depress epicurean rapacity.
Suturnal attainments belicetate ambitious egotism.
Physiological monstrosities alarm squeamish lexicographers.
Impecunious denizens denounce baneful curatations impediments.
Incomprehensible monologues desecchranize intellectual exaltation.

Arthritic discomforts of pedicular extremities, amputate composure.
Matrimonial annexations distinctly contravert modern enlightenment.
The gospel of mulitiference is the acme of human research.

A woman was distracted recently by the mysterious disappearance of a diamond ring worth $500 which she had placed in a chamber bag and deposited beneath the mattress of her bed. The discovery was finally made by the fact that the woman's pet box terrier which had abstracted the bag and left it in the back yard.

MYSTIC VALLEY LEAGUE.

The Highland Club of Melrose visited Calumet on Monday evening in the Mystic Valley League. The home club won a decisive victory in billiards, pools, cards and bowling, taking ten out of the thirteen points represented.

Smalley and Combs made easy work of their billiard games; Rogers won at pool and Cutter lost by only one point, giving a good margin on the total. Hal-Ballard won at whist and the home club took the total also, while at bowling Calumet won three of the four points.

In bowling Olmsted and Newman were high for the evening, the former making a single of 120 and a total of 320 and Newman a single of 123 and a total of 314. The team made a total of 1441.

NEARING A PARKWAY.

When the town of Winchester handed to Mr. Arthur Whitney a check for $5,000 in payment for the buildings and drainage rights of the mill property in that town, the transfer meant much for Wolburn, especially in the line of bringing our city a little closer to the great chain of parkways which go to make up the Metropolitan System.

The main object of the purchase is to beautify and complete Winchester's parkways, plans being on foot to end the system at Wedge Pond at the rear of the Calumet Club.

If these plans are followed out it is evident that Wolburn will be more the parkway than ever before and requires but a little imagination to see Wolburn a part of the system to which, as a city, it has contributed for years.—[Wolburn Times.

WHITNEY ESTATE

PASSED TO TOWN.

$57,000 Paid for Property and the Flowage Rights.

Final papers were passed last Friday transferring to the town of Winchester for $57,000 the Whitney mill property and flowage rights which the town voted to purchase a few months ago as a part of a very elaborate plan for improving and beautifying the ponds and river.

The property included in the present purchase, owned by Arthur E. Whitney, includes the three-story machine shop, engine house, cutter shop, a three-story factory building, carpenter shop and water power at the corner of Main street and Walnut streets, assessed for $30,800 and the flowage rights in several acres of land covered by what are known as the Mill Pond, Black Bull pond, Jenkins pond and Wedge pond, also the bottoms of these ponds the rights of which are controlled by Mr. Whitney and by the transfer became the property of the town.

This will make possible many improvements which the town has desired for many years but which it has not been possible to arrange for. Under an agreement with Mr. Whitney the water in Mystic Lake could not be raised above a certain mark as it interfered with the mill wheel. It will now be possible to raise the water in Mystic Lake and the Aberjona River to a higher level so that at all times the lake will be more sightly and carries out small boats will be able to come up to Manchester Field and the center of the town. By draining the water above the dam much land will be exposed which is now covered by water in the shallow ponds above mentioned and it is proposed to convert them into parks and playgrounds.

Another benefit in connection with this taking which will be of particular interest to Wolburn is that it opens up a new route by which that city can get a branch of the Mystic Valley Parkway and so get in touch with the Metropolitan Park system, for which it is taxed, but of which it has no part.

This is the property which the town voted to purchase at a special town meeting several months ago on the recommendation of a special committee, which submitted its report together with elaborate plans for developing and improving the section of the town in which the above property is located, laying out walks and drives as an extension of the Mystic Valley Parkway. The contemplated plan is proposed to greatly enhance in value, considerable property and adds to the attractiveness of the town as a place of residence already one of the most desirable in the suburbs of Boston.

A POPULAR POLITICIAN.

The following was taken from the Independent Statesman of Concord, N. H., owned by Senator William E. Chandler.

William Whitehead Tuck of Winchester, Mass., is a many-sided individual. He is a Democrat, yet popular with Republicans, and a friend and admirer of Robert M. LaFollette. He is a most tactful man, knows everybody and pleases everybody, both at the Boston State House and on the streets and in the hotels.

His acquaintance with public men is broad, indeed, both inside and outside his own commonwealth, from Governor Foss to Champ Clark and back to Sherman L. Whipple and Company. If he were to come to Concord and take up the cause of LaFollette under the direction of Walter L. Houser the boom would swell into big dimensions. Or if he should instruct Clarence E. Carr in the art of politics we should hear Republican disaster next year. We could not find the biggest hack in the woods in the old Bay State and make no date in the Granite State. The metal in Tuck's composition is good gold.

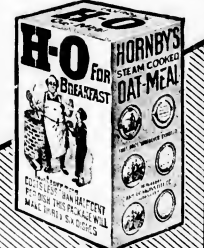

MRS. WILLIAM SMITH.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, aged 29 years, wife of Rev. William Smith, died at her home on Winchester place on Tuesday. She was born in Virginia and had made her home in this town for a number of years. Besides her husband she leaves an infant daughter and five children.

The funeral services will be held this Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the New Hope Baptist Church on Cross Street. The burial will be in Wildwood cemetery.

suburbs to Boston won't find much encouragement in the recent remarks of Rev. E. S.
Merrell of West Roxbury. "It might be well," he declared, "to petition the legislature for permission to withdraw from the city. Then our district would get the benefit of the public spirit and civic activity of its citizens.""Now," he continued, "we are persistently deprived of the ordinary municipal advantages. Because Boston is incorrigibly Democratic and this district hopelessly Republican, the community has become penalized for its political in-conformity. So systematically have local improvements been denied that it is time for an ingation meeting. Streets, sidewalks, parkways, public school equipment and facilities are coming to an intolerable state of neglect." Charlestown is suffering from the same experience.It is hoped that those who discuss the grade crossing problem at the meeting of the Deliberative Assembly next Tuesday evening will consider carefully the bearing of the ownership by the Town of the Whitney mill property and water rights. This is bound to have a considerable effect on the land damages to be incurred by the various plans so far as they might include this property, on the seriousness of any inroad on the Common, and on the engineering plans so far as they involve the level of the waters about the center. In any event the elimination of the center crossing at grade is bound to make important changes in the physical appearance of the center of the Town; the proper development of the Whitney property will make equally important changes just outside the center.
It is evident, therefore, that the two should be worked out harmoniously.A large variety of tea and

1912 Cadillac CARS

You who have not grasped their full significance—
stop and consider these new comforts created by the Cadillac Electrical System

It has no crank.

The "cranking" is done by an electric motor.

It has no gas nor oil lamps.

It makes its own electric light.

It has two complete systems of ignition, either of which is efficient for operating the car independently of the other.

But, best of all, the three functions, starting, lighting and igniting, are all performed by one compact system, a system which is not obtainable, either whole or in part, on any other car.

The dynamo charges a storage battery.

The dynamo is temporarily transformed into a motor and, acting as a motor, it automatically starts the engine.

Then it reverts again to a dynamo and generates current for lighting and for ignition.

You press a button and push forward the clutch pedal. The engine starts.

Nothing for you to think of—except the luxury of no cranking. Reliable as the motors which drive the

An interesting letter from a former Winchester boy will be found on page six, telling what he saw at a bull fight in Mexico. Also on page three will be found an article on the old Mill Sites in Winchester.

Speaking of the Boston & Maine System, before the Men's Club in Arlington last week, Mr. Byrnes said the trouble with the railroad was that no provision had been made for depreciation or the establishing of a sinking fund. Until this road is practically rebuilt and equipped with new rolling stock, we must go slow. It has come under the management of Mr. Mellen. You know him or have heard of him. He traced his brilliant career, and said, so you see he has never touched a piece of railroad property he did not greatly enhance in value and bring to a good dividend paying place.

The Selectmen have decided to discontinue making public their proceedings. For over ten years they have been given to the public, Winchester being the pioneer in this regard, and has been followed by the surrounding cities and towns. For the past year or more, however, the public has been getting but a portion of the bottom of the can, and therefore the information given out has been inconsequential and of but little interest to the citizens. The Selectmen should not discontinue giving out information, but rather make it more fuller than heretofore. The citizens are interested and desire to keep in touch with the business that this great corporation of Winchester is transacting. Public service corporations and big interests all over the country are spending millions of dollars a year these times for publicity, and it seems rather strange that the Selectmen of Winchester in this regard should go back to the "dark ages" of fifteen or twenty years ago when the public were served with misinformation picked up in the corner grocery store.

Nowsy Paragraphs

Mrs. William Thorrick is recovering from an attack of grip.

Dr. Hinds has been engaged to sing the Christmas music at the South Congregational Church in Boston, on Foster street, Mr. Joshua Thorrick, a Kisson organist at that church and has prepared some excellent music for Sunday.

David McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. McDonald, died yesterday morning at the home of his parents at 608 Main street. He was in his fifth year and a pupil in the Wadleigh Grammar School. He had been confined to his home for the past three weeks with double pneumonia.

The public schools close today for the annual Christmas vacation and will open Wednesday, Jan. 3.

Miss Mary Kellogg gave her beginner's class in dancing a Christmas party. This was at home in Wadleigh Hall. The children, who are very young, showed the painstaking instruction of Miss Kellogg plainly. Very pretty was the singing with the last movement. A Kisson dance was given by the young ladies which was very nicely done. The little girls were delighted with the little Christmas pudding which held their gifts.

Mr. Guy Messenger son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Messenger, is home from Webster for the holidays.

Master Elmer Sacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sacher of Olerbury, is home from the Choate School for the holidays.

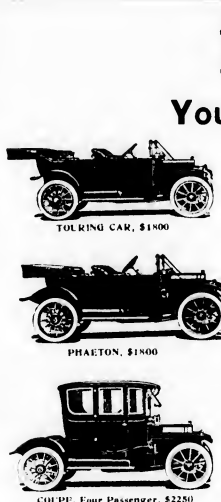

A woman said to reside on the Park was run down by a car on Wednesday evening while trying to cross Mr. Vernon street in front of the police station. The car, which was owned by a west side resident and driven by a young member of the family, was moving slowly and was not to blame for the accident. The woman was not injured, but was taken to her home by the driver of the car.

An alarm of fire was rung in last evening from Box 28, for a time in the kitchen of Arthur B. Martin on Wedgewood avenue. The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion, burning a chair in the kitchen. It was extinguished with no damage.

The Winchester Laundry Co. has purchased a new auto truck for its collection and delivery work outside of Winchester. The new car will not arrive for some weeks, and in the mean while a truck is hired by the company two days a week.

The residence of Mr. Daniel Kelley on Dix street is rapidly inuring calamities. The grazing about the house was finished this week. This residence makes a fine addition to the locality and is one of the most complete in interior arrangement of any of the residences in the city.

The Winchester Highlands Athletic Club has arranged a home game with a team consisting practically of the regular High School team, for Christmas morning at 10 o'clock, to be played at Long Pond.

GRADE CROSSING MEETING. CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT.

The Deliberative Assembly held a meeting in Assembly Hall, High School building, Tuesday evening. The subject for discussion was the grade crossing abolition question, and the two principal speakers were Mr. Allen Chambliss and Mr. Irving T. Gould, both formerly of Winchester, and speakers for the so-called Gould plan which calls for the raising of the streets over the tracks at the crossing. The remarks of these gentlemen were similar to those expressed by them several years ago, and which are familiar to readers of the STAR. At the conclusion of their remarks questions were asked by Messrs. J. A. Laraway, Ralph B. Redden, Henry C. Nickerson, John B. Willis, Harry E. Lunt, F. Percival Lewis, Harold K. Bartons, Clarence C. Miller, Herman Dudley Morley, Herbert A. Wadleigh and William A. Kneeland. Mr. Frederic S. Snyder explained to the meeting what the railroad would be required to do, which was to provide a reasonable means for separating the grade. That is no ornamentation and a location that would meet the reasonable requirements for public travel. Beyond that the town would have to pay for it. There were a number of pictures thrown upon a screen showing how elevated tracks would look a bridge over the railroad at the centre, scenes at the Antebellum crossing where the tracks were elevated, etc.

There was an exhibition in the hall a copy of the centre plan which had been prepared by the engineers of the Boston & Maine railroad and which was estimated to cost $50,000. The engineers are now at work on a less expensive plan which will come before the town in a few weeks. It is expected that the latter plan will be the ultimatum of the railroad and will mark the extent to which the road will go regarding expense, which will be about $20,000. All over that the town will have to pay for. In other words if the town insists on the centre plan it may be required to pay $50,000 and its proportionate share of $20,000—$50,000 so that the total amount the town would have to pay outright would be $70,000, and assume the responsibility for litigation—the most important, for reaching and unknown quantity, that affects the centre plan.

The real test will come when the railroad presents its plan and unless many objections have been submitted, there will be a contest for carrying out the equivalent for the present advocates of travel over the crossing and why the railroad should not pay its proportion or the equivalent of what the cost is to be for that equivalent.

REMEMBER!

That you always get the prettiest Christmas cards, folders and gift-dressings at Wilson's Stationers. Not only the large D-mason line is sold, but an imported set of cards, seals and other novelties which is unequalled anywhere. Do not neglect to look over this stock before buying. This man is the agent for the well known Lamson goods, and the quality of all his lines, hand-colored and framed pictures is better this year than ever. A specialty has been made of small calendars this season.

In addition a full line of holly and decorated boxes, engagement pads, dainty line-day books, calendar pads, fountain pens, pencil assortments, post cards, holy red and green twine, gold and silver cord, sewing wax sets, p. st. card albums, line stationery, and games will be found.

1912 Cadillac CARS

You who have not grasped their full significance—stop and consider these new comforts created by the Cadillac Electrical System

It has no crank.

Its "cranking" is done by an electric motor.

It has no gas nor oil lamps.

It makes its own electric light.

It has two complete systems of ignition, either of which is efficient for operating the car independently of the other.

But, best of all,—the three functions, starting, lighting and igniting, are all performed by one compact system, a system which is not obtainable, either whole or in part, on any other car.

The dynamo charges a storage battery.

The dynamo is temporarily transformed into a motor and, acting as a motor, it automatically starts the engine.

Then—it reverts again to a dynamo and generates current for lighting and for ignition.

You—press a button and push forward the clutch pedal. The engine starts.

Nothing for you to think of—except the luxury of no cranking. Reliable as the motors which drive the trolley cars.

Nothing for you to think of—except the luxury of no lamps to light; and the brilliant, steady glow of electric lights instead. Reliable as the electric lights which illuminate your home.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS ENTERTAINED.

The NK and Sigma Beta, the secret societies of the girls of the High School, gave a Christmas party in Wadleigh Hall, Wednesday afternoon to sixty-four mothers and babies. The affair was under the direction of Miss Billings, district nurse of the Visiting Nurse Association.

The tree was enjoyed from three until five, during which time gifts were distributed and a program of dancing, singing and recitations given. Each mother was presented with a little gift and each baby with an article of clothing. A solo dance was given by Miss Marjorie Bradbrook, songs by Miss Katherine Fisk, recitations by Miss Clara N. Strong, and dances by the Misses George Young, Helen Simpson and Lyle Davis.

Mr. Howard Mencke impersonated Santa Claus in distributing the gifts. The mothers presented Miss Billings with a $20 gold piece and the young ladies gave her flowers.

The tree was most attractively decorated with colored trimmings and colored lights, and the tables with pansies.

The afternoon closed with a cream and cake.

The two societies of young ladies number about thirty members.

Mr. Charles Marsh of Dexter, Me. paid a flying visit to his former home in Winchester on Winsor road, last week.

BASKET BALL.

In their first regular game of the season, the High School basketball team was defeated by Reading High School 19 to 10 at Reading last Friday evening.

During the first few minutes of play, Winchester's lunks failed to cover their opponents giving Reading a lead which Winchester was unable to catch up with. Had it not been for this Winchester would have had a good chance to win the game, for in the last half Reading scored only two goals from the floor.

Winchester was also weak in throwing goals from both for out of nineteen chances only four were successful. Aside from these two faults Winchester played a good game, and with the practice which they have had since then, they ought to put up a close game with the alumni tonight.

The game was rough owing to the awkwardness of the gymnasium, the backboards of the goals were not solid and this handicapped Winchester a little. The nature of the game was a roll by Rogers shot half the length of the gymnasium. Capt. Prime and Rogers excelled for the visiting team.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.
After its grand holiday opening, Friday evening, "The Wizard of Oz" will begin its week at the Castle Square Theatre with two Christmas holiday performances that promise to fill the house to the very doors. This is the first of Mr. Craig's musical spectacles, but it exceeds them all in variety, in humor, in musical features, in dancing and in scenic splendor.
The cast is unequalled. George Russell and Donald Reed respectively as the Wicked Witch and the Scarecrow; Walter Walker as the Wizard, Morgan Wallace as King Pastoral, Arthur Hill as the Cowardly Lion, and Montgomery as the Tin Man. Miss Cole as the Lady Lumine and Mary Young as Dorothy Gale, with many other players in the leading roles, make up a host of singers, give "The Wizard of Oz" the best presentation it has ever received in Boston. Large audiences are assured during the coming week, and it is certain that this will be the most popular of all Mr. Craig's Christmas productions.

W. C. I. U. NOTES.
At the meeting on Friday, Mrs. R. W. Dover's committee presented themselves making candy bags for the Unit in Society's Christmas distribution, which will be in the range of the Flower Mission work. In addition Mrs. J. C. ASPARAGUS

25 CENTS

The announcement of the arrival of the New Libby's Asparagus in last week's STAR, was evidently read and acted upon by many of our Customers. Have you tried it? Do you realize that at twenty-five cents for the Tips and thirty cents for the Tails, it is about as cheap and satisfying a Vegetable as you can buy. A few steaks creamed on toast or a Salad is delightful and healthful. Do you know that Libby's Asparagus is now being served as a ration on board our War Ships. Do not consider it an expensive delicacy. It is delightful, but at the same time it is a fit and proper food for the men behind the guns.

A letter recently received from a Winchester boy who is in the west contains the following which will be interesting to many who are acquainted with the young man. Everett W. Wain is here in San Francisco, employed by a library bureau. Billie Little is in San Francisco, Enie Blakie is here, also, and is very successful in the real estate business. Warren Currier is in Los Angeles in the real estate business, Bob Abercrombie is in Oakland, Ned Cole is in Los Angeles, Hal McCull, who is in Massachusetts just now, is settled on a large ranch and is building a fine home in Oregon. Dr. Harding is in Piedmont, Cal., and Dr. Shepherd is in Los Angeles.

Mr. Warren Taplin, formerly of this town, is in Winchester for the holidays as the guest of Mr. Sherman Saltmarsh of Mt. Vernon street.

Master Edwin and Misses Edith and Eleanor Foss of Washington street, who have been all with the mumps, are rapidly recovering.

Newsy Paragraphs.

An amusing incident was that of a boy and his mother, heavily laden with bundles, who were getting into a semi-convertible car. The boy, with a bundle in each hand got in first. He stepped to the right of the bar at the centre of the entrance, but his left arm and the package went to the left. There he struggled for some time trying to get by the bar. Finally his mother exclaimed, "Johnny, you're worse than the moving pictures."

The Dartmouth Club connected with Phillips Academy, Andover, held its annual meeting last Thursday evening at Boston. This club is made up of Andover boys who expect to go to Dartmouth.

Richard Parkhurst of this town is the President of the club at the present time. About 35 boys were present as well as three members of the faculty who are Dartmouth men and a few Alumni last night of that vicinity. But a address was made by Mr. L. J. Felt of Andover.

Mr. Benoit the new captain of the varsity eleven from the college, and Mr. Lewis Parkhurst of Winchester. Refreshments were served and the first of the evening was spent in singing Andover and Dartmouth songs and listening to reminiscences of college days as recalled by the old guards who were present.

BLASTING AT THE HIGHLANDS

In all probability the residents at the Highlands have a greater interest in the operation of the commonwealth Trap Rock Co. than have the people of Woburn, because houses of Winchester people are closer to the operation of the company than are those of our neighboring city. The plant is just over the line and the shocks from the explosions are severely felt all over the Highlands in broken plaster, etc.At the meeting of the city council of Woburn last Friday evening the petition of the Company for a permit to store dynamite in a magazine on its property in the southeasterly part of the city, upon which a public hearing was given at the last meeting of the council, was taken up, and a motion was made that it be granted.The clerk read two petitions or communications from residents in the vicinity of the quarry, protesting against the granting of the permits, the petitioners asserting that the company had violated the last agreement, pending action, that blasting would be done in a reasonable and safe manner. The petitioners claimed that on Dec. 28, very heavy charges of dynamite were used, the explosions and concussion creating objectionable disturbance. They asked for a further hearing before the petition was granted.Alderman Corrigan took the side of the petitioners and wanted the council to allow them to be heard again, and was opposed to the granting of the petition, but he was overruled, the chair deciding that the hearing on the question had already been closed, and also that the council had nothing to do with the blasting, the only question before it being as to the granting of the permit for the storage of dynamite.The question as to granting the permit was put, and was carried, with but one dissenting vote, after the wording of the permit had been made to include the restriction that it not exceeding 1000 pounds of dynamite should be stored at any one time and that it should be under the supervision of the chief of the fire-department.

CARE OF BRIDGES.

The Supreme Court has handed down
a decision in the railroad bridge case, which is of great importance to all communities. The court decided that the owner of a bridge should be held to keep it in repair, the only exception being when the bridge is in such a state of decay as to be unsafe, in which case the owner may be held to demolish it. The court also decided that the owner of a bridge should be held to keep it in repair, the only exception being when the bridge is in such a state of decay as to be unsafe, in which case the owner may be held to demolish it.The court also decided that the owner of a bridge should be held to keep it in repair, the only exception being when the bridge is in such a state of decay as to be unsafe, in which case the owner may be held to demolish it. The court also decided that the owner of a bridge should be held to keep it in repair, the only exception being when the bridge is in such a state of decay as to be unsafe, in which case the owner may be held to demolish
it.INCREASING DIVIDENDS IN SAVINGS BANK LIFE
INSURANCE.With 5.50 policy holders and more than $2,000,000 of insurance in force, Savings Bank Life Insurance is proving the soundness and efficiency of its methods by declaring an increased dividend to its policy holders.Dividends have just been declared by the Insurance Departments of the Winchester Savings Bank, Whitman and the People's Savings Bank, Boston.The dividends on the monthly premium policies, at the end of the last year, amounted to 8.13 per cent, and in the fourth year reach 12.23 per cent. This is the equivalent of two full monthly premiums.Dividends on the annual premium policies have been largely increased over those declared a year ago, and now average from 9 to 11 per cent of the yearly premium on the straight life policies; from 8 to 9 per cent on the 20 payment life policies; and from 6.12 to 8.12 per cent on the 20 year endowment policies.These dividends have been declared by the Banks only after a careful and conservative safeguarding of the business of the Insurance Departments. The full legal reserve, as required by law, has been set aside on all policies, and besides, a surplus is maintained in each Bank amounting to over 25 per cent of the legal reserve.The growing interest in this movement on the part of the Savings Bank is shown by the fact that three Savings Banks now have Insurance Departments and that thirteen other Savings Banks have become public agencies for Savings Bank
Life Insurance.Saddle horses to let at Blaisdell's

OPPOSED TO

WOMAN-SUFFRAGE.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Friday afternoon, Dec. 28th, at the same time that a suffrage meeting was held in Winchester, another meeting composed of women who do not believe in woman-suffrage was also held in this town.At this meeting, attended by thirty-three, Mrs. A. J. George of Brookline, and Mrs. Frank Foxcroft of Cambridge were the guests. Each of the ladies spoke earnestly and so convincingly of the evils which they believed would eventually be the outcome of giving the responsibility of suffrage to women, that six new names were given to the membership list of the Massachusetts Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.This association was formed in Boston about fifteen years ago, by some earnest, intelligent women, who, having made a study of the subject, became convinced that bringing women into the electorate (which means not only giving them the responsibility of the vote, but making them eligible to every office in the State) would work great harm to both woman and the State. The association has steadily grown till it now numbers over 15,700 members in 349 cities, towns and villages of Massachusetts. Its object is stated briefly in these words: "This association has been organized by women who believe that a systematic resistance should be made to the appeals and claims of woman suffragists, and who desire to educate public opinion to an opposition based on intelligent conviction."Among the early members were Mrs.
Eliot Cabot, Mrs. G. Howland Shaw,
Mrs. Kate Garrett Wells, Mrs. Charles
D. Johnson, Mrs. James M. Codman, Mrs. Oliver Peabody, all well-known for their interest and aid in social, philanthropic and educational reforms—almost thoroughly interested in the true progress of woman. They have had the sympathy and encouragement of such men as Rev. Edward Everett Hale,
Gov. Curtis Guild, Richard Watson
Gilder, Hon. Elihu Root, President
Eliot and Lowell of Harvard University, and especially of the late Judge Francis Cabot Lowell, who, to the time of his death, took great interest in the movement, and was one of the association's most valued supporters and counselors.Any one wishing to read some of the papers published by the association, can obtain them by application to Miss L. A.
Mush, 23 North Street, and the Winchester branch of the association invites all women, who sympathize with us, or who are still doubtful, and would like to hear more of the reasons of anti-suffragists, to send their names to either of the three members whose names are here given. Mrs. H. A. Emerson, 28
Cannell Street, Miss J. A. Mush, 23
North Street, Miss M. A. Parsons, 232
Main Street.

END THE RICHESON CASE.

It is to be hoped that this timely suggestion made by the Boston Herald may be carried out.While the latest phase of the Richeson case cannot be regarded as tantamount to a confession of any crime, as some observers have hastily asserted, it is evidently a degree of abnormality, by which the prosecuting officers may well take notice. Cannot they and the attorneys for the defense get together and conclude this case without the sickening ordeal of a trial, the disclosures of which, regardless of its eventuality, are to be regretted exceedingly, particularly in their effects on the youth of the community. It would be of considerable advantage to the moral welfare of Boston could the Richeson trial be avoided, and the parading once more of the whole disgusting affair before the public be obviated. The Herald offers no opinion as to whether the information is true or false, any more than it does as to its guilt. But it does express the view that those who are usually antichurch are to be feared from the newspapers, for they will agree on some points, in doing justice, without the necessity of a trial.

Entered at the postoffice at Winchester as second-class matter.

Happy and prosperous year to all.

Monday was a green Christmas, but it was a mighty fine day. Who would wish it otherwise!

Now is the time to subscribe for the STAR. It is the best New Year's present that the family can enjoy.

If Boston could be uplifted by oratory and dinners, even now the mountain climbers would be preparing to tackle her lofty peaks. [Charlestown Enterprise.]

It dogs could only talk and act, a big howl would go up for the abolition of the crossing at the centre. Hardly a week passes but somebody's pet dog is killed.

If Revere wants to be annexed to Boston, nobody has any reason to object, but there is no sentiment in favor of annexation here in Somerville. [Somerville Journal.]

Winchester has 20 plans to eliminate grade crossings. Thorough preparation! [Boston Herald.] Yes, Winchester is thoroughly alive to the fact that it has a future that shall not be interfered with.

Our local merchants say that they had the most prosperous Christmas trade this year in their history. Shop at home, at reasonable prices, and avoid the crush, was a big factor in making our merchants happy.

Pension Agent Hoyt of the Boston office is authority for the statement that the pension roll is fast becoming a list of widows. The first of the month $2,240,000 was disbursed in pensions to the wards of the government from the Boston office.

No one can accuse the special grade crossing commission of showing any partiality to Winchester thus far, or even unduly fair consideration. This commission should recognize that there are other interests than the railroad to be considered.

The closing of the Charlestown Navy Yard would be a good thing for Boston. The yard ties up nearly a mile of water front that might be used for wharves, docks etc. The prestige of this yard, passed away some years ago, when politics were not so clean as they are now.

The indications are that there will be much building here commencing in the spring. Many dwellings of the best class are sure of being built, and a material increase of population is confidently expected. But as Mr. Norman said in the Star, apartment houses may mean the cessation of building.

The abolition of the governor's council and the substitution of an executive council to be composed of the heads of the various State departments has been asked of the General Court by Henry Sterling, a labor man of Melford. To so reconstruct the council that a majority of its members would owe their places to gubernatorial favor, would be to make the body a wholly useless clog in the machinery of the Commonwealth.

Police Officer McCauley exercises a careful watch over the young children who pass over the crossing on their way to and from the Prince School, when they are not accompanied by parents or guardians. Parents of these children are fearful of the dangers at this point to an extent unknown

You who have not grasped their full significance—
stop and consider these new comforts created
by the Cadillac Electrical System

It has no crank.

Its "cranking" is done by an electric motor

It has no gas nor oil lamps.

It makes its own electric light.

It has two complete systems of ignition, either of which is efficient for operating the car independently of the other.

But, best of all—the three functions, starting, lighting and igniting, are all performed by one compact system, a system which is not obtainable, either whole or in part, on any other car.

The dynamo charges a storage battery.

The dynamo is temporarily transformed into a motor and, acting as a motor, it automatically starts the engine.

Then—it reverts again to a dynamo and generates current for lighting and for ignition.

You—press a button and push forward the clutch pedal. The engine starts.

Nothing for you to think of—except the luxury of no cranking. Reliable as the motors which drive the trolley cars.

Nothing for you to think of—except the luxury of no lamps to light; and the brilliant, steady glow of electric lights instead. Reliable as the electric lights which illuminate your home.

OUR DUMB ANIMALS.

The January number of Our Dumb Animals is a creditable piece of holiday magazine work, and shows great improvement over former issues. The publication is doing a great work in the prevention of cruelty to animals and it is regretted that it does not touch the heart of more people who hunt for fun, abuse horses and other animals. Our Dumb Animals has done and is doing a great work in educating the people to just treatment of all kinds of animals.

CONGREGATIONAL

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

The "Christmas Story in Song" was given at the First Congregational Church on Sunday afternoon by a choir of seventy assembly of chorists of one hundred children. The musical service was under the direction of Margaret Lovejoy-Welch. Miss Emma Grebe assisted with the violin and Miss Jessie P. Merrill was organist.

PAPA, WHAT IS A RADIOPTICAN?

It is a machine operated by gas or electricity and is used for amusement and instruction.
Papa. How does it work?

There is a slide in the back of the machine arranged to hold picture postal cards and by the aid of lights, reflectors and lenses, the pictures are reproduced very much enlarged on a screen in similar manner to a stereopticon.

Papa. Where can I see one work?
Mr. Barron, the man who makes glasses, lives at 26 Wintrop street and he will show you how it works Friday evenings. $2.50 to $25.00 each.

SIGMA BETA DANCE.

The Sigma Beta Society of the Winchester High School, held their annual dance on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The following committee was in charge and were mainly responsible for the excellent evening enjoyed by over 200 guests. Chairman, Miss Georgia coming, assisted by Miss Marion Todd, Miss Anna Todd, Miss Dorothy Fairbush, Miss Estelle Davis and Miss Ruth Roberts.

One of the most pleasant dances of the evening was when all the lights were extinguished except those which lit up a large Sigma Beta shield, over which high five couples danced a long waltz under this charming illumination. The hall was decorated with evergreens and pink flowers. The music for the affair were Mrs. Owen Southern, Mrs. French, and Mrs. Samuel W. McCall.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

Last Saturday was a strenuous time for the Reading-Arlington line of the Bay State St. R. R. Early in the morning a trolley was held and tied up the line for a time. Later a car bumped the track, causing still further delay, and then at 10:30 a Reading-bound car caught fire under the sand box, when near Cross street and at the same time burned the rear car and files on several lines. As soon as the fire was removed, the train was easily extinguished. Several women passengers were badly frightened by the explosion and the dense smoke which filled the car, and a man was slightly scorched in getting out the rear end, but otherwise no one was injured. The car was towed to Reading by the car following. Left in the afternoon for Black signal lights near New York and this time late evening day.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bridges of High land avenue, a couple of Cambridgeport, arrived from New York on the 10:30 train.

As yet no word has been received from the missing car of the 10:30 train.

Miss Elsie Smith, 114 1/2 Winchester St., has been appointed to teach in the 10:30 train.

ASPARAGUS

The announcement of the arrival of the New Libby's Asparagus, in last week's STAR, was evidently read and acted upon by many of our customers. Have you tried it? Do you realize that at twenty-five cents for the Tips and thirty cents for the Tails, it is about as cheap and satisfying a Vegetable as you can buy. A few steaks creamed on toast or a Salad is delightful and healthful. Do you know that Libby's Asparagus is now being served as a ration on board our War Ships. Do not consider it an expensive delicacy. It is delightful, but at the same time it is a fit and proper food for the men behind the guns.
